* Twilight photos are usually taken of the exterior of the property at dusk, and used to showcase a landscape or property, by highlighting features such as fire pits, pools, and even sunsets. They are more likely to grab the attention of the buyer when a home search is performed and thumbnails of properties are shown.

 When operating a drone in controlled airspace, permission is required from the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA). Airspace approvals are automated and are usually approved instantly. Approval to operate the drone is not always guaranteed when operating near some airports.
